

Statement by TTA President, Geoffrey A. Fields

Early last month President Trump submitted a formal class action lawsuit against Big Tech companies Facebook, Twitter, Google and their CEO's. These companies are working hand in hand, doing the government's bidding to stifle free speech of millions of Americans, in violation of the first amendment. Outright banning viewpoints of their political opposition by arbitrarily labeling them 'misinformation'.

Big Tech engages in actions like shadow-banning which limits engagement and ability to share posts from restricted accounts. These techniques can be deployed to remove prominent political influencers and everyday citizens whose views go against "the party line". Big Tech also uses algorithms to control what people see on their phones. As you know, they control what's "trending". They tell what's real and what's fake. How do you beat something wired into everyone's hand?

After 2016 and until 2020, new energy for the MAGA movement exploded like nothing history has seen, the sky was the limit. However, Big Tech felt threatened and went on a communist style censorship spree. My personal account was deleted twice and flagged first in late 2019 after I became more active and vocal on the political scene. During the 2020 election year, my account alongside groups, pages, family and friends were banned, restricted or deleted, halting our ability to support the President during the election. Don't just look at my story. Look at the millions of conservatives and Trump supporters who were silenced. Look at Donald Trump himself, who was permanently removed from YouTube, Twitter and Facebook.

Since 2016, these companies have removed upwards of 20,000,000 accounts of conservatives from every walk of life, even the sitting President of the United States. Many prominent accounts, news stories and channels are gone, Big Tech bans or censors any coverage harmful to Democrats. They censor all coverage of Donald Trump, the 2020 election, COVID-19 origins, Biden family corruption, Hunter Biden's laptop, failed Democrat policies and anything critical of China. Many people lost their personal accounts for posting news stories that were true but, Democrats and corporate media wanted to cover up.

Twitter, Facebook and Google effectively control the public narrative of populations around the world, interfering and manipulating with elections and public thought. I urge everyone to join the class action lawsuit in effort to hold these Big Tech oligarchs accountable. Big Tech is acting like big Government and we cannot live in a world where they have such influence over our Western way of life.
